Chamber welcomes new entrant to North-east community

Aberdeen & Grampian Chamber of Commerce is welcoming a new member of the North-east business community as Texo DSI joins the organisation as a Premier Partner.

Texo Drone Survey & Inspection owns and operates a fleet of unmanned aerial vehicles, and operates within various industrial and commercial environments, delivering aerial inspection and survey solutions.

The company joins 21 other Premier Partners, who work with the Chamber that are drawn from a wide range of sectors, and include oil & gas operators, both universities in the region as well as the airport, harbour board and football club.

Membership director at the Chamber Liam Smyth said: "We work very closely with Premier Partners, providing high level engagement and support to their senior teams on a range of projects and initiatives."

"Maintaining a successful and prosperous region will be achieved through effective partnerships and the Chamber is ready and able to harness our networks in the wider UK and overseas to achieve that aim.

"Texo is an exciting addition to our membership and it's great to see they recognise the potential in our region. We're looking forward to helping them make those vital connections that allow innovative businesses like theirs to succeed and prosper."

Shelley Regan, commercial development manager at Texo DSI said: "We are absolutely delighted to announce our partnership with Aberdeen & Grampian Chamber of Commerce.

"The North-east of Scotland is a key geographical market for us.

"We have developed a market-leading fleet of UAV platforms and associated survey and inspection technology that is ideally placed to service the demanding needs of not only the oil and gas community but a number of other mission-critical sectors."
